My Meetings with Tomilina

“Discovery is the most vital aspect of our service to art culture”, observes G.Pospelov and points out that it may be in finding a previously unknown work of art, or in a happy formulation of a certain idea, or yet in meeting a live witness of a whole past epoch of art. In this article he tells us about Alexandra Tomilina, second wife of Mikhail Larionov, thanks to whom the art heritage of Larionov and Goncharova returned to Russia in the late 1980s.
